TIMES OFFICE, Nov. 4.—4 A. M.

William McKinley and Garret A. Hobart, the Republican candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, have been elected by a tremendous majority in the Electoral College and by an enormous plurality of the popular vote.

Out of the 447 Electoral votes, the Democratic-Populist combination of Bryan, Sewall, and Watson was only able to secure 122, as against 313 for their Republican competitors, with one State in doubt.

The victory for sound money is even more strikingly shown in the popular vote. In this, the pluralities from the most trustworthy data make it appear that McKinley and Hobart lead the opposition by more than 1,000,000 ballots.

In the analysis by States, as shown in the adjoining column, the fact is made clear that the attempted coalition of the South and West has been an absolute and thorough failure.

The boasted "Solid South" has been broken. Of the States which formerly made up this mass that was regarded as Democratic under all circumstances, the Republican candidates for the Presidency have carried Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, and Kentucky. In nearly all cases, moreover, the pluralities were large.

In the Middle West, which was by common consent made the principal fighting ground, the Republicans have made a clean sweep. Illinois, the pivotal State, has gone Republican by an immense plurality. Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas, Kansas, and Nebraska have followed.

The three Pacific coast States and Wyoming are also to be placed in the Republican list.

In the East, every State from Maine to North Carolina, inclusive, has gone for McKinley and Hobart, with the exception of Virginia, which is in doubt.

Thirty States went Republican and fourteen Democratic and Populist.

Every record for large pluralities in the history of the country has been broken by New-York and Pennsylvania, each of which gives the Republican candidates about 300,000. Of other States in the same column, Illinois gives 150,000, Massachusetts 110,000, and Wisconsin 100,000.

The landslide for honest money came according to prediction.

THE CONGRESS.

The Republicans have secured control of both branches of the Fifty-fifth Congress.

In the Senate the Republicans gain Senators from Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, New-York, South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

Free silver has now 49 votes in the Senate. It will have but 42 after March 4, 1897.

Vest may be doomed to retirement from Missouri; Voorhees will be beaten in Indiana; Ingalls may return from Kansas; Hill will be followed by a Republican from the State of New-York.

With the majority secured by the Republicans, that party will be able to carry any political legislation it desires through the Senate.

The House of Representatives will be Republican by nearly, if not quite, 130 majority, the indications promising to give to the Republicans most of the districts reported as doubtful.

The Democrats come out of the election with very few solid delegations to the next House. Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, form the short line of "solid" States.

The majority in the House for sound money will be approximately the Republican majority. A Republican in Colorado is for free silver; one Democrat in Kentucky is for the gold standard and was endorsed by the Republicans; the Silver Party elected the Nevada Representative, who is unwilling to be classed with either of the other parties. "Silver Dick" Bland is probably beaten in Missouri, but "Objector" Holman has been once more elected from Indiana.

New-York sends but five Democratic Representatives to the next Congress, and they are about as inconspicuous and unworthy a group as ever managed to secure election to such responsible positions.

The Populists have certainly doubled their strength in the present Congress, and it is possible they may increase by contests in close districts.

McKinley's net plurality	267,502

TIMES OFFICE, Nov. 4.—4 A. M.

McKinley carried New-York State by a plurality that broke all previous records. It is about 270,000.

The sound-money wave took everything before it.

The greatest plurality ever given to a candidate of either party before this year was 192,854. That was the Democratic plurality given to Grover Cleveland for Governor in 1882. For the first time a Republican candidate for President has carried New-York County.

The heretofore Democratic stronghold, which has figured in all the calculations, to overcome the majority up the State with which the Republicans "come down to Harlem," led the procession in its Republican plurality.

Kings County gave a plurality for McKinley which was not far from that of New-York, and Erie, Monroe, Onondaga, and Albany showed large gains over their usual figures.

In many parts of the State the National Democrats voted for McKinley, and the Palmer and Buckner vote in those places was far less than the number of men enrolled by that organization.

The total vote in the State was large, and reports are uniform that it was polled early. Such interest has rarely been manifested.

Schoharie County held to its record of always going Democratic. That was the only county in the State which gave a plurality for Bryan. The Democratic plurality in that county four years ago was about 1,300, and two years ago it was about 400. This year it was about 300.

Chemung County, which was one of the two counties north of the Harlem to give a plurality for Hill for Governor two years ago, gave a plurality of more than 2,000 for McKinley.

The town of Red Hook, in which Mr. Bryan spent a week on his first campaigning trip to what he called "the enemy's country" gave McKinley 247 votes more than it gave to Gov. Morton two years ago.
